Summer Reading Activity Grades 6 - 8

1. Develop a short “book talk” (explanation/summary) about the book that can be shared with the class. Include story elements such as; characters, settings, plot, etc.
2. The “book talk” should be written on Google Docs or Google Slides. You may also use index cards. You must have at least 7-8 well-developed sentences about the novel, without giving away any "spoilers." Please make sure you list the title and author of the book on the top of the Google Doc or on the first Google Slide.
3. Give your audience a taste of the story. Do not give away the ending. Bring the book and a copy of the “book talk” to school on the first day of class.
4. I will collect them, and we will spend time presenting these book talks at the beginning of the year. Be prepared to give your opinion on events within the novel.

The following OPTIONAL Summer Reading Lists have been developed to encourage reading and to guide students with other book choices during the summer. Reading for pleasure helps to build reading skills and instills a love of reading that hopefully, will last a lifetime. I recommend that students read a variety of books from this reading list. Many different books, from challenging to easier choices, are listed. While specific book titles are suggested, students may choose any book of interest to read for pleasure. Students may also create a Daily Reading Log with their summer reading time calculated and added to their Log Sheet for additional extra credit. This Daily Reading Log should be signed but a parent.
